BUILDING NEW SOUTH WALES' FUTURE

The NSW Liberals and Nationals have a plan to support families, back jobs and get NSW back to the top of the pack by putting infrastructure back at the centre of government to support growing communities and unlock economic growth.

Under Labor, NSW is not getting its fair share of GST and infrastructure funding from the Federal Government.

A NSW Liberals and Nationals Government will:

- Negotiate a new Western Sydney City Deal. A long-term plan to deliver the infrastructure our growing city needs.
- Continue building Metros by progressing a Metro for South Western Sydney.
- Introduce a Regional Infrastructure Guarantee to ensure at least 25% of new infrastructure spending is in regional NSW.

Member for Hawkesbury, Robyn Preston said the Minns Labor Government has no ambition for the future of our state and Hawkesbury is paying the price.

"Hawkesbury deserve a government that will invest in the roads, public transport, schools and local infrastructure needed for the future," Ms Preston said.

"For the last three years, while our community has continued to grow, we've seen delays, uncertainty and a lack of long-term planning from the Minns Labor Government."

Leader of the Opposition Kellie Sloane said NSW needs a government prepared to plan for the future.

"When the Liberals and Nationals were in government, we built the roads, rail, schools and hospitals that communities rely on today," Ms Sloane said.

"Labor has lost its ambition for New South Wales and our state is falling behind."

The NSW Liberals and Nationals have a plan to build for the future and ensure New South Wales remains the engine room of the national economy.
